Teachers Praised For Threat Of Strike

By LUCILLE HOWARD
Star Staff Writer

When Denver teachers threatened to strike for "something other than self-interest," it was a "great hour for American education," a Boston author and instructor declared here Friday.

Denver teachers "proved they could be courageous because they threatened to strike when the board of education failed to initiate a workable plan for school desegregation," Jonathan Kozol told some 400 educators attending the last Nebraska State Education Association District I convention session.

"Those teachers soared in the minds of the public . . . They wouldn't hide behind a code of non-commitment disguised as professional respectability," the 31-year-old authority on problems in urban schools said.

New Definition'

Now is the time, he added, to "forge a new definition of the word professional for teachers." Militancy is appropriate for seeking rights, dignity, salary and other improvements, but it also should be used on "purely moral matters."

He urged the teachers to be militant about school desegregation, about getting teachers intimately acquainted with students' families, about upholding the demands of the poor community.

"This is the kind of moral and triumphant militancy teachers have in their power to adopt."

Kozol is author of "Death at an Early Age." The book is based on his eight-month service as a $20-a-day substitute teacher in a school located in a primarily-Negro neighborhood of Boston.

He was later invited to testify on ghetto problems before a Senate subcommittee, and his book became an issue in Boston's hot mayoralty campaign.

Situations Described

He described some of the situations of the school in which he taught, including the PTA meetings in which the white faculty separated itself from the Negro parents.

old and dilapidated building and equipment, and the overcrowded conditions which caused the school to count on illness to have a place for every child.

Kozol told about the reading textbooks that said "some of the people are white like ourselves," used by the 35 Negro children in the classroom.

He criticized the demands of teachers and administrators that children use "nicer words" than "okay" and "skinny."

"The attitude of mind that excludes such ordinary reality from a classroom is the same attitude that shuts out parents, that creates a distrust and animosity so deeply troubling to us today, but the roots of which we pretend not to understand."

And now, parents, who had to call these things to the attention of school boards, "say teachers had no right not to see it was wrong." These things were "spawning prejudice and teachers were in the classrooms and said nothing."

These parents now are saying "we don't know if we can trust white teachers."

Alternative Available

But, Kozol declared, this doesn't have to be the "final story. There is an alternative."

Educators will have to "get away from the few token examples" of education about Negroes and begin discussions about black people, including Stokely Carmichael and Malcolm X.

"You don't have to endorse their views, but you have to admit their reality to the class," he contended.

Teachers may have to "extend a hand to parents and students first," he emphasized, noting the distrust that has been created.

County Voter Registration Tops Record

Voter registration for the Nov. 5 general election closed Friday at 5 p.m. with an apparent new Lancaster County registration record being reached.

Not counting an unknown number of persons registering here for the first time who managed to beat the deadline, the latest available figures show that the total count of Lincoln and rural Lancaster voters stands at 74,386. A final tabulation will be announced later.

The previous high number of city and rural registered voters combined was 73,251 for the primary election last May 14.

The breakdown by party: City Republican, 34,990; Democratic, 29,615; non-political, 2,292; American, 99 and 1st District New Party, 15. Total: 67,011.

Rural: Republican, 3,733; Democratic, 3,331; non-political, 250; American, nine and 1st District New Party, two. Total: 7,375.

Volunteers Sworn In As Probation Officers

Twenty-eight volunteer probation officers, the first in the history of Lincoln, were sworn in early Friday afternoon by Presiding Municipal Court Judge Thomas J. McManus.

Beginning next week, the volunteers will be assigned individual probationers. The volunteers will meet with their probationers, talk over problems and report back to the court.

Court officials hope that the program will help to decrease the number of repeat offenders. The emphasis of the program will be on juvenile offenders.

'Umbilical Cord'

McManus told the volunteers that their function would be that of an "umbilical cord between the life of this court — justice — and the individual's life."

President Thieu Will Not Budge

... Smashing Victories Reported

Saigon (AP)—U.S. and South Korean forces reported smashing victories over the enemy on two widely separated battlefields Friday, listing 436 enemy killed with the aid of air, artillery and naval bombardment.

The fighting appeared to break a long lull in the ground war, and on the political front South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu was reported to have dimmed immediate prospects of advancement toward a peace settlement.

Informed sources said Thieu — despite American urging — had refused to budge from his opposition to letting representatives of the Viet Cong have a separate role in any peace negotiations.

Inside DMZ

One of the ground actions reported by the U.S. Command Saturday took place a mile inside the so-called demilitarized zone north of Con Thien combat base. Elements of the U.S. 5th Infantry Division said 232 North Vietnamese soldiers were killed in seven hours of fighting.

U.S. losses were put at six killed and 29 wounded seriously enough to be evacuated. The fighting took place in the same general area where 65 North Vietnamese were reported killed Thursday.

The second major fight Friday took place six miles southwest of coastal Nha Trang, where men of the South Korean White Horse Division set up a cordon and reported killing 36 enemy during the morning without taking a single casualty.

168 More Bodies

Fighting continued into the afternoon, U.S. headquarters said, and the Koreans engaged several other groups within the cordoned area. Supported by artillery and fighter-bombers, the Koreans later found the bodies of 168 more bodies.

The previous high number of city and rural registered voters combined was 73,251 for the primary election last May 14.

The breakdown by party: City Republican, 34,990; Democratic, 29,615; non-political, 2,292; American, 99 and 1st District New Party, 15. Total: 67,011.

Rural: Republican, 3,733; Democratic, 3,331; non-political, 250; American, nine and 1st District New Party, two. Total: 7,375.

Critical Issue In Paris Said Viet Cong's Status

© New York Times Service

Paris — Informed sources said Friday the critical unresolved question in the Vietnam war talks here was the conditions under which the South Vietnamese government and the National Liberation Front, the Viet Cong's political arm could enter the next phase of negotiations.

Diplomats indicated that there had been further exchanges between Washington and Hanoi in the two weeks since the United States put forward its proposals for halting all bombing of North Vietnam.

more enemy, officials said.

Korean casualties for the day were described as "very light with no fatalities."

With better weather holding over North Vietnam's panhandle, U.S. Air Force, Navy and Marine planes Friday pounded road and water traffic, weapons positions and storage areas. The Navy said surface-to-air missiles were fired 28 miles northwest of Vinh but pilots evaded and the burned out missiles detonated high in the air.

Raids As Usual

Despite continued talk of a bombing halt over North Vietnam, American planes were carrying out strikes as usual Saturday, sources said, and more were being planned for Sunday.

Matching Thieu's reported refusal to compromise, Hanoi radio declared Friday that North Vietnam had not accepted any U.S. condition in exchange for a bombing halt.

South Vietnamese sources who have access to official information said U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker has accepted Thieu's position as final and has told Washington that further efforts to persuade the president to change his mind are hopeless, at least for the present.

The U.S. mission declined to comment on this report.

The informants said Thieu was unbending on the subject of letting the NLF take part in peace negotiations. He met Friday with Bunker for nearly two hours. It was their seventh meeting in the past 10 days.

North Vietnam has insisted that the NLF is the true government of South Vietnam.

The North Vietnamese now are said to be convinced, for the first time, that President Johnson is genuinely interested in stopping the bombing.

The United States is believed to want evidence of military restraint by North Vietnam and participation of South Vietnamese representatives in the next phase of talks.

The proposals were made after the United States received some indications of flexibility on Hanoi's part during weeks of private explorations, diplomatic sources said.

This I Do Not Believe'

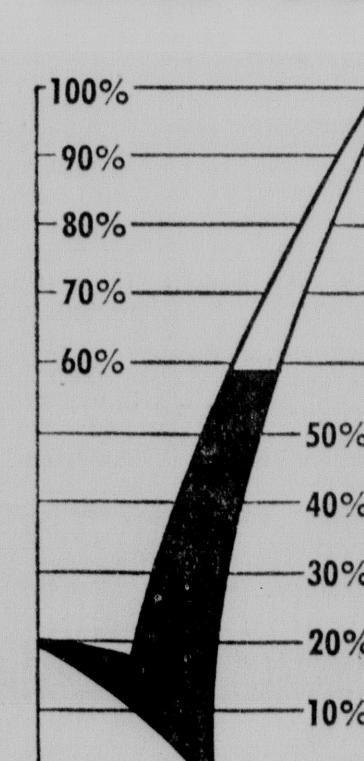

"This I do not believe," Nixon said. He said Johnson has made it clear "he will not play politics" with this war.

Herbert G. Klein, Nixon's director of campaign communications, would not disclose the sources upon which Nixon based his statements.

He denied that Nixon's rejection of the idea that Johnson has political motives was an effort to plant that very idea. "We don't participate in that sort of thing," he said.

Klein later called another briefing.

TIME TO SPARE . . . that's what Carol Kobza will have Sunday with the end of daylight time.

Sleep An Extra Hour

Turn that clock BACK tonight.

You get an extra hour to sleep, because at midnight the nation officially returns to standard time.

The easiest way to handle the change to standard (instead of daylight) time, most people agree, is to change the clock when you go to bed.

If you go to bed at 11 p.m., change the clock to read 10 p.m. and it will be right with the rest of the world when you get up. If you're a night owl and don't retire until 3 a.m. (daylight time), set the clock for 2 a.m. when you hit the sack.

If you're one of the people who enjoys having an extra hour of daylight in the evening during the summer, you won't mind the fuss. If you're not, blame it on Congress, which in 1966 passed the law requiring daylight time for all states unless their legislatures specifically exempted the whole state from it.

Nixon Learns President Trying Hard For Peace

New York (AP) — Republican presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon said Friday he has learned that President Johnson is "driving very hard" for agreement on a Vietnam bombing halt, and possibly a cease-fire in the immediate future.

Nixon issued a statement reporting he has been advised of a flurry of White House meetings in the last 36 hours dealing with the effort to move toward peace in Southeast Asia.

From that starting point, he moved on to report — and deny — what he called rumors and speculation that "this spurt of activity is a cynical, last-minute attempt by Johnson to salvage the candidacy" of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, the Democratic presidential nominee.

'This I Do Not Believe'

"This I do not believe," Nixon said. He said Johnson has made it clear "he will not play politics" with this war.

Herbert G. Klein, Nixon's director of campaign communications, would not disclose the sources upon which Nixon based his statements.

"This latest suggestion of presidential politicking with the Vietnam war is but one of many similar rumors and press speculations in recent weeks," Nixon said.

Klein later called another briefing.

Washington — President Johnson has ordered that there be no setup in the military effort in South Vietnam despite intensive diplomatic attempts to break the battlefield stalemate, Secretary of Defense Clark Clifford said. (Another story on Page 2.) Meanwhile, officials said a Hanoi radio broadcast saying "Johnson is still unwilling to unconditionally end the bombing" of North Vietnam may mean that Hanoi is not interested in the President's latest terms for a bombing halt.

HHH Says Nixon Plays Politics With Security

Los Angeles (P) — Hubert H. Humphrey accused Richard M. Nixon Friday of "playing politics with our national security."

He denied his Republican opponent's statement that Democratic administrations permitted a 'security gap' between U.S. and Soviet military power.

"In an effort to catch votes he is playing politics with our national security, undermining the confidence of our allies, encouraging a recklessness among our enemies and undermining our long and patient efforts to bring a rational end to the madness of the strategic arms race," said Humphrey.

Reply He made the statement in reply to a Nixon radio broadcast Thursday night which pledged to close a "serious security gap" caused by misjudgment of Soviet intentions by the Kennedy and Johnson administrations.

The Nixon accusation — and Humphrey's counteraccusation appeared to be the hottest issue so far in the late stages of the presidential campaign. Nixon's assertions of a security gap recalled the late John F. Kennedy's claims in the 1960 campaign that the Republican Eisenhower-Nixon administration had permitted a missile gap.

Humphrey said Nixon "has accused the Kennedy and Johnson administrations of permitting a 'security gap' that could become a 'survival gap.'

'There Is No Gap' "There is no 'security gap,'" said Humphrey. "There will be no 'survival gap' — unless we follow Mr. Nixon's advice."

Humphrey said Nixon claimed that eight years ago the U.S. numerical advantage over Russian bombers was 30%, but that now the Russians are 50% ahead.

The fact is, Humphrey said, the United States has more than 500 heavy strategic bombers and more than 600 tankers to the Soviet Union's 150 heavy bombers and 50 dual tanker-bombers.

To Nixon's claim the Russians are perfecting ballistic missile multiple warheads far more powerful than this nation's Humphrey said: "The Soviets are at least two years behind us in simple multiple warheads and these have already been made obsolete by our technology."

Humphrey also rejected Nixon's claim that the United States had lost a 500% advantage in nuclear submarines in only eight years.

Nuclear Sub Lead

"Today we have 75 nuclear submarines, compared with only 18 in 1961," said Humphrey. "The U.S.S.R. has only 57 nuclear submarines, compared with 12 in 1961. Thus a 150% U.S. superiority — not 500% — is still 130%."

"At the present time — and for the indefinite future — the United States possesses enough nuclear destructive power based securely underground and in submarines at sea, to obliterate any aggressor nation on earth."

Humphrey said Nixon "has threatened to bring down the whole fragile architecture of peace, of retreat from the insanity of the arms race that has been so carefully constructed by the administrations of Presidents Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson."

He called upon Nixon to "withdraw his ill-considered charges."

Said "it is too soon to be able to attach any significance to the lower level of combat" in South Vietnam.

Ordered the Navy to proceed in building a new-type, $150-million to $200-million nuclear attack submarine which will be the quietest operating in the world. The so-called turbine electric drive submarine with its super silence for stealthy operations had been sought by Vice Adm. Hyman G. Rickover but was threatened with cancellation in a Pentagon economy drive.

Gave a vote of confidence to the Air Force's trouble-plagued F111 aircraft while acknowledging that the question of future spending for the swing-wing jet is up for his review.

On Vietnam, Clifford was asked whether recent talk about an imminent breakthrough was ill founded.

The defense chief said President Johnson "has directed his Cabinet members to refrain from commenting on developments" in the Paris peace talks.

Finally, he said, in terms of deliverable nuclear weapons — "the ultimate strength, which to me is the final test" — the United States leads 4,206 to 1,200.

Clifford didn't say so but his figures reflected Soviet gains in virtually all areas during the past year.

On other matters, Clifford:

Said "it is too soon to be able to attach any significance to the lower level of combat" in South Vietnam.

Steep Climb In Interest Rates On Mortgages Comes To End

(c) New York Times Service

Part of the increase is attributable to removal or increase in a number of states of interest rate ceilings under treasury laws.

The average effective interest rates varied according to types of lenders. The range was from a low of 6.99% for commercial banks to a high of 7.49% for mortgage companies.

All of these figures refer to "conventional" mortgages — those not insured or guaranteed by the government.

In September a year ago, before the sharp upward trend began, the average effective interest rate was 6.44%. Thus the rise has been about 0.34%.

State Intervenes

New York — In a new effort to end the teachers' strike, State Education Commissioner James E. Allen Jr. offered to "assume responsibility" for the safe return of union teachers to the Ocean Hill-Brownsville school district in Brooklyn. He also proposed that the district's suspended governing board and its "reassigned chief administrator," Rhody A. McCoy, be reinstated. However, the proposals were immediately rejected by teachers' union president Alber Shanker.

32 Reported Dead In N.H. Air Crash

Hanover, N.H. (P) — A and rescue personnel from Pease Air Force Base at Portsmouth, N.H., was at the scene to assist in rescue operations.

State police called for "all medical aid possible."

May Hitchcock Hospital reported one survivor there and two others were at the nearby home of the late Gen. Frank Merrill, leader of Merrill's Marauders in World War II. No information was available on their identities and condition.

Persons near the scene said the plane crashed about 60 feet below the mountaintop, in an area on heavy woods and rock ledge.

A number of those aboard were reported badly burned, but four were able to walk down the mountain.

The Weather Bureau at Boston said its Lebanon station reported overcast at 2,000 feet at the time of the crash. This would have left higher peaks in the area obscured.

Breaking two weeks of public silence, the Communist Party first secretary said the party must move quickly to meet Soviet demands for restoring normality in this occupied nation.

"The sooner we realize what must be done, the faster shall we create conditions for the further advance, creative activity and upsurge of the life of our (Czech and Slovak) nations," Dubcek told party functionaries at the eastern Bohemia chemical town of Pardubice.

Dubcek spoke out as Czechoslovakia blossomed with tricolor banners and late season flowers in preparation for what some feared might be a troubled celebration of its 50th year as a republic.

Lynda's Baby Puts Johnson On 'Cloud 9'

Washington (UPI) — President Johnson was on "cloud nine" Friday over the birth of his first granddaughter who was described by Mrs. Johnson as "pink, vocal and 7½ pounds."

The baby, as yet unnamed, was born three minutes after midnight Friday to Lynda Bird Robb, elder daughter of President and Mrs. Johnson.

Lynda's husband, Marine Capt. Charles Robb, in Vietnam on combat duty, received the news minutes later. "It feels great," he said. He handed out cigars to colleagues. It took only 10 minutes to run out. He said he and Lynda Bird had picked a name but he would let her announce it.

The President was on hand at Bethesda Naval Hospital when the baby was delivered.

He proudly announced the event to reporters himself and enthusiastically handed out cigars to the newsmen present.

In less than 10 hours, Johnson returned for a second look at the dark-haired new arrival. He brought with him his first grandchild, 2-year-old Patrick Lyndon Nugent, who was allowed by presidential request to take a peek at his infant cousin.

The President said the youngster stood on tiptoe to see the new baby, waved in greeting and murmured in wonderment "mommma, momma."

Both Lynda, 24, and the baby were doing fine, Bethesda doctors and Mrs. Johnson reported.

Mother and child were occupying the large special presidential suite in the naval hospital on the outskirts of Washington.

Cardinal Cushing To Retire Earlier

Boston (P) — Richard Cardinal Cushing, archbishop of Boston, said Friday he will offer his resignation to the Pope at the end of this year, advancing his retirement plans by two years because of the critical letters he has received about his views on the marriage of Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy.

Cushing said in an interview broadcast by radio station WEEI that he had received many letters "condemning me for asking charity for Jacqueline Kennedy."

Cushing said when he married the late President John F. Kennedy to Jacqueline Bouvier, Kennedy came to him and said, "If anything happens to me — and he seemed to foresee that something was going to happen to him — if anything happens to me, it is in the language of the gutter."

Cushing, now 73, had announced some time ago that he planned to retire Aug. 24, 1970, when he will be 75, and will have been a priest for 50 years.

"Now I propose after the publicity I have received in recent days, in my own native city, which publicity has been going all over the world, to offer my resignation to His Holiness Pope Paul VI at the end of this year," he said.

Cushing said when he married the late President John F. Kennedy to Jacqueline Bouvier, Kennedy came to him and said, "If anything happens to me — and he seemed to foresee that something was going to happen to him — if anything happens to me, it is in the language of the gutter."

"What happened in Czechoslovakia last August has unfortunately shown us that optimism is not warranted," Gen. Sunay said in a toast to his guest at a dinner in the presidential palace.

"Buyuk Adam" — the big man — as headlines here call Gen. de Gaulle, received a curious and friendly though not demonstrative welcome on his arrival for a six-day state visit Friday. He began immediately his customary warm appeal to the pride and independence of his hosts.

Replying to Sunay's greeting at Ankara airport the general paid homage to the goal of modernization set by the national hero, Kemal Ataturk, and to the "will for independence of Turkey — a compact people, a solid strength, an organized state."

"We are entirely disposed to align our policy with yours," De Gaulle said.

'Bailey Yard' Is Dedicated

... $12.5 Million Project

By CRAIG CALLAWAY
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

North Platte—The Union Pacific Railroad's new $12.5 million classification yard officially became "Bailey Yard" in a champagne-bottle-popping ceremony here Friday.

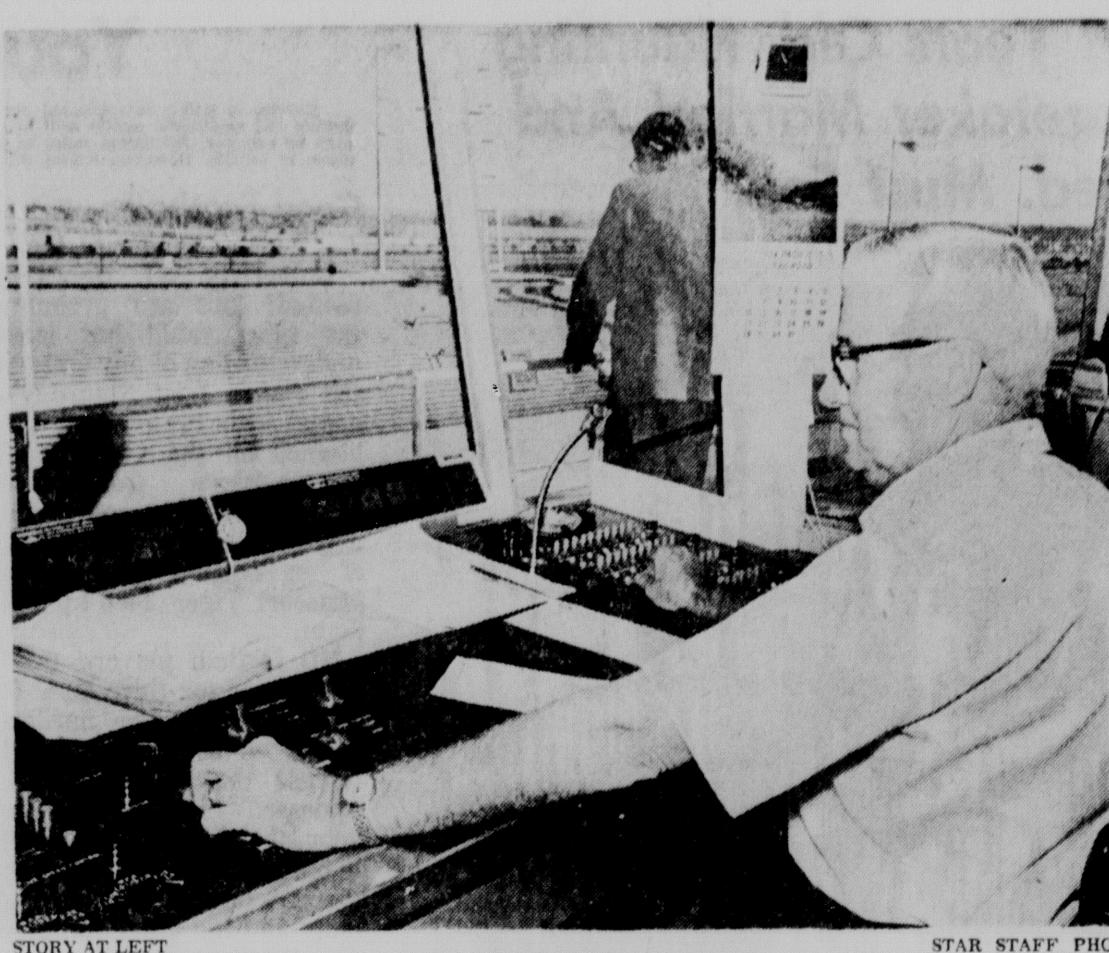

Frank E. Barnett, chairman of the UP's executive committee, did the bottle-bursting along a piece of track, commemorating the yard, named after UP President Edd H. Bailey. Bailey had worked many years in North Platte.

800-Acre Site
The new yard occupies an 800-acre site west of the railroad's older yard, which was completed in 1948.

The new facility will be used exclusively for classification and blocking of east-bound freight trains. It includes a 1.5 mile six-track receiving yard, a 32-foot hump for gravity feeding into classification tracks in the tend to stay ahead."

bowl, and a 62-track classification bowl.

As trains come in from the west, they are moved to the top of the "hump," where they are uncoupled and rolled down the classification tracks according to the eastern destinations. Two trains may be rolled simultaneously over the hump at four miles per hour.

A computer in a special tower weighs the cars as they roll down the hump and activates retarders along the track to slow down the cars and keep them at the appropriate coupling speed.

At ceremonies in the North Platte Elks Club following the dedication at the yards, Bailey said, "I don't know how to say I'm happy any better than to just say I'm a very happy man . . . We're ahead," he said, "and we intend to stay ahead."

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

An Omaha orangutan reminds me of home. We'll let the members of the family boil a little over that one before clearing the matter up. Let them wonder who reminds me of an orangutan — but it is a member of the family.

Fu Manchu is the name of the animal, housed in the Henry Doorly Zoo. He and some friends had been making periodic escapes from their locked quarters and it was baffling the attendants.

Unable to figure out how Fu and his friends did it, attendants decided to keep a 24-hour watch on the cage. This soon provided the answer. Fu made his way to the bottom of the dry moat surrounding his cage and to a service entry door.

Then, with a wire he had stored in his mouth, he tripped the spring lock on the door.

This gave him entry to a machine room from which he acquired access to a door to the public area inside the orangutan building. For Fu and his friends, that was freedom. It was one of seven ways the orangutan has so far figured out to gain freedom for himself and his friends.

None of the orangutans has ever strayed far from his premises, however, undoubtedly remembering where the meals come from.

Zoo officials have not improved the locks on the doors but the director reports he doesn't know if the "orangutan building can ever be Fu-proof."

As we said, the situation is just like home. The family dog is an escape artist, too. Her pen is not secured with a lock but this wasn't considered necessary. A screen door type of hook and eye catch were used to secure the pen door.

For a week, the boy charged with responsibility for putting the dog away at night was criticized for failing to hook the pen gate shut. He couldn't have hooked the gate because the dog, after enjoying her freedom for a couple of hours, would show up at the front door.

Finally, it was decided that the boy could not be that irresponsible for that long. A stakeout was executed and it was found that the dog was squeezing out of the gate at the very bottom by sheer force.

The hook-and-eye arrangement was changed so the gate could not be forced open at the bottom. It was not long before the dog again showed up at night at the front door.

Another stake-out was executed. The dog had gotten smarter. Since the gate could not be forced open enough for her to squeeze through, she was unhooking the latch with her nose.

The answer was to provide two hooks and eyes, one on the inside at the top and one on the outside at the bottom. This held the gate tight, pulling it in two directions and made the hooks fit tightly in the eyes.

It wasn't enough. Still, she unhooked the gate with her nose and enjoyed an evening out on the neighborhood. The latest scheme has been to wire the gate shut and, so far, the dog has figured no way around that.

But the animals do not purposely destroy anything, even when free. People, on the other hand, seem bent on destruction.

Private owners of forest lands are reported by the Wall Street Journal to be trying to open the land to the public, in hopes of discouraging federal takeovers for recreational purposes.

The owners claim that vandalism is the biggest drawback to opening up the woods.

"Several companies," reports the Journal, "say that visitors have shot holes in bulldozers and other heavy equipment in the forests, and some vandals have poured sand into the gas tanks of machines. Weyerhaeuser officials say vandals have slashed trees near some recreation areas, which stops nutrients from spreading up the trees and eventually kills them."

We may laugh at the animals but they are smart enough not to destroy the environment in which they live.

GOP's Plans Cover Future Possibilities

WASHINGTON — Richard Nixon, looking ahead to the possibility that a three-way division of the votes on November 5 may throw the election into the House of Representatives, has worked out his post-election strategy with his usual thoroughness.

It would cause a bad public reaction, he feels, if he made any deal with the extremist candidate, George Wallace. Some aides have suggested that he bypass Wallace and make a direct appeal to all electors, who are not bound by law to vote for the candidate to whom they are pledged. These aides have urged that Nixon use his ambassador to the South, Sen. Strom Thurmond, to dicker with the Nixon-Agnew relationship.

However, the Republican candidate has also rejected this proposal. Any backstage bartering of the presidency, he believes, would be resented by the voters. Therefore he has decided to make an appeal to the House delegations to cast their votes strictly according to the popular vote in each state if electors give no one a majority.

If the election should wind up in the House, the Constitution allows each state one vote. There is an excellent chance that Nixon will win a majority of states in the popular vote but that the Democrats may keep control of the House. This would mean that the Democrat-dominated House delegations could give Hubert Humphrey a majority.

Nixon intends to appeal to the House delegations to lay CASTLE—Eight Years Old. Haunting Memories. Caretaker Married And Moved. Must Sell.

No Tax Ceiling

The latest and only known opposition to the proposed community junior college for Lincoln to be voted upon Nov. 5 centers around the fact that the proposition contains no tax levy limitation. In other words, if voters approve of the community junior college, the Lincoln School District could spend all it wanted on the facility.

The point is, though, that this is no different than it has ever been. The School District right today can spend all it wants on education, including the vocational-academic combination approach it plans with the community junior college. Nor would the school district have to have a vote of the people to establish such a college.

The vote is needed, though, to mark such an institution what it ought to be. The vote would facilitate an institution with full accreditation in both the vocational and academic fields. Further, it would allow the district to be eligible for state and federal aid. Finally, a favorable vote would be a public demonstration of support for the program.

Now, the fact is that the district is not likely to go out and establish such a school if the issue gets voted down. But the fact that it could make the argument about tax ceilings a little irrelevant. If the district is not abusing its present authority, why would it abuse that authority after a public vote of confidence had been given it?

It just doesn't make sense to assume that the Board of Education and school district administrators are going to play fast and loose with your money. A new community junior college would cost a mill or so more in taxes, and nobody is trying to hide that fact, but it would be well worth it.

Debate Becomes Real Issue

What looked at first like the usual political nonsense — Hubert Humphrey's insistence that Richard Nixon meet him in open debate — now begins to take on the form of a real issue.

It's not so much whether the debates would prove anything, except the capacity to debate. But Nixon's aloofness over the whole issue gives the appearance that he is super-confident. This makes Humphrey the underdog, revives cries of 1948 and the Truman upset, and generally works in Nixon's favor.

Nixon has said he won't debate because this would give third party candidate George Wallace, who would have to be included, undue attention. This doesn't hold water, because there's nothing to stop the two major party candidates from deciding to meet at 10th and O at noon, at which time the networks could cover the event as news and the equal time rule would not apply.

Humphrey, who, incidentally, voted against a bill which would have allowed Sen. Barry Goldwater to debate Lyndon Johnson in 1964, thus has an issue with which to embarrass Nixon. The Nixon camp says anyone who has to make an issue of something as trivial as a TV debate must be in bad shape.

Well, Nixon won't discuss Vietnam, pleading that he's afraid he'll upset the Paris talks (translated: why discuss issues if you can get elected without discussing issues?). He won't disown the irresponsible sayings of Spiro Agnew.

All of which leaves Humphrey fighting mad. The Nixon machine is running so smoothly . . . his is sputtering so badly. Yes, the debate issue is becoming a real issue. Come on, Mr. Nixon, you debated Khrushchev. Why not Humphrey?

Nixon Campaign Bible Offers Very Little In Specifics Which Voters Now Desire

CAMPAIGNING WITH NIXON IN NEW YORK — Richard Nixon's campaign is a marvel of perfection. It is organized down to the last Nixonette, the last round of cheering and applause, the last press release put out precisely on schedule.

That may, in fact, be its greatest weakness. The apparatus is so large, so impressive, so costly that the man himself tends to be obscured by the machine.

In the current jargon, Nixon may have peaked. That is to say he has gone on for so long cautiously treasuring his large lead over a rival whose campaign has been diffuse, confused and uncertain that almost everybody has had enough of the balancing act. And it is too late for an abrupt change of pace and style.

But with all this, as he is granted a still-substantial Nixon lead, to one observer this does not seem to be the Nixon problem. Even more than the polls show, it appears at this point, voters are undecided.

For the Nixon managers, the most sensitive point is that the candidate is saying nothing or next to nothing on the issues. In refutation they have put out a book of 194 printed pages carefully indexed and collated, a triumph of organization such as the Humphrey campaign could not dream of achieving. This encyclopedic volume covers nearly 300 issues or sub-issues on which Nixon has spoken, beginning with the announcement of his candidacy in February in New Hampshire.

He has said a great deal. He has made sweeping promises. The word "transform" recurs again and again in this campaign bible. He is for building up America's missile power in order to negotiate with the state and the city is stretched almost to the point of diminishing returns. A Republican governor, Nelson Rockefeller, having brought his head when he intervened to avert disaster in the police slowdown in a dispute over wages puts the rudiments of law and order — merely keeping the clogged streets partially open — in jeopardy. The taxing power divided between the state and the city is stretched almost to the point of diminishing returns. A Republican program, such as Head Start and Follow Through, expanded if that

Good Football

Savannah, Mo.

University of Nebraska football fans are probably the most rabid but least understanding of any state in the Union. Last Saturday's defeat (Oct. 19) as usual was blamed on the inability of Nebraska's tremendous football machine, and credit was not given to the ability of an equally tremendous Missouri Tiger football team.

team would have brought decidedly different results. Missouri does not have its defensive record by accident, so pat those Cornhuskers on the back instead of crucifying them.

Let's Grow Up

Lincoln, Neb.

Since I was unintentionally caught in the picture with Congressman Denney (Star, Oct. 24) in what was a very excellent shot of the candidate, and since it was quite unauthorized and surprising use of my name, let me identify the occasion.

A fair-sized crowd attended the three-way political debate at Grace Methodist Church. As many others did, I met each of the candidates

So it is painful to see the super-cautious and mentally timid resort to bluster about power, and law and order, like the little boy who says, "My dad will lick your dad." Let's grow up.

Truth Squad

Omaha, Neb.

I read that Tiemann will go out and campaign for the Republican candidates and will join the "truth squad." Will he deduct his pay during this time as governor of the state of Nebraska, as Governor Romney did when "politicking?" Tiemann is supposed to be serving all parties in this state. Why should he take a job with the wealthy Republican Party and go out to demean and belittle good American Democrats?

Tiemann's craving for a job elsewhere is pish-pash.

A good friend who has been a Republican says Romney is too honest to run for president. He doesn't try to get the people's money for his own braggadocio tactics around the country.

TEACHER

BARRY GOLDWATER

The Loyal Opposition

In his almost total domination of the Republican National Convention in 1964, Barry Goldwater proved once again that the Democratic and Republican parties of the 20th Century are held together by personalities instead of policies.

From the standpoint of winning the election, the "proof" was disastrous to both Goldwater and the Republican Party, for Goldwater was soundly defeated and the party badly split.

Goldwater entered the national political scene in 1952 when he was elected to the U.S. Senate on the Republican ticket. He was re-elected in 1958 despite a strong national Democratic trend.

Goldwater's victory over the veteran Arizona legislator and Senate Majority Leader Ernest McFarland made him a conspicuous figure, and he soon became the chief spokesman for the conservative wing of his party. His name was placed in nomination at the Republican National Convention in 1960, but he withdrew in favor of Richard Nixon.

At the 1964 convention, however, Goldwater and his group easily dominated the moderates in the party, and Goldwater was nominated on the first ballot.

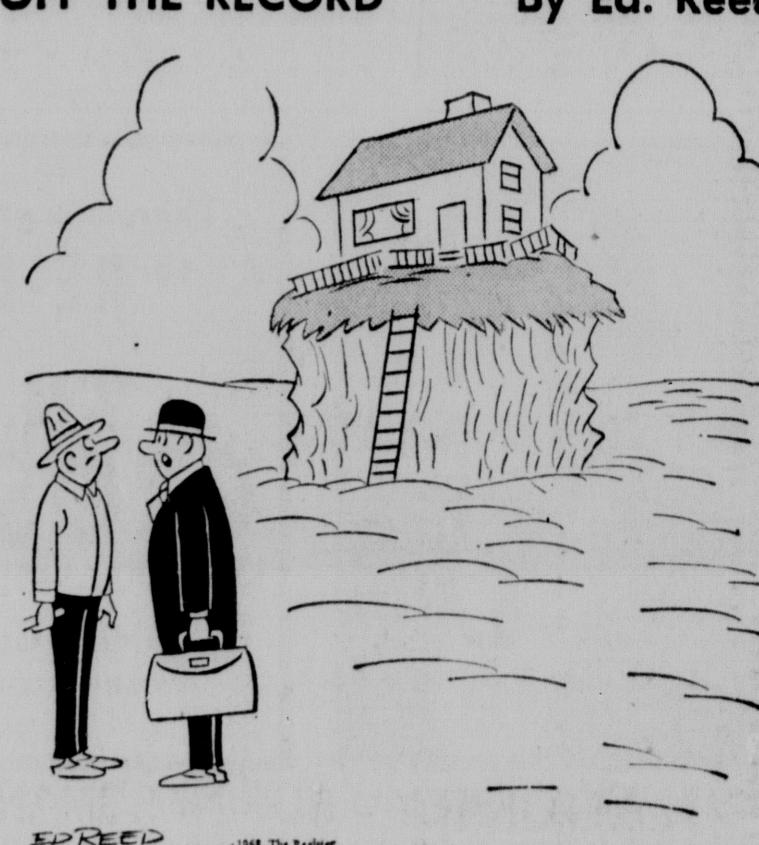

On the theory that Republican strength was hopelessly weak in the North and East, Goldwater concentrated the bulk of his electioneering in the South, Midwest and on the West Coast. His main themes were a lessening of government power and a tougher attitude toward communism.

Following his defeat, Goldwater continued to express his political philosophy in a syndicated newspaper column in which he was consistently critical of President Johnson and his administration. Early in 1968 he gave up the column, reporting he wanted to devote more time to political activities in his native Arizona.

Old Age Not Cause Of Troubles

By ROBERT PETERSON

Q. — "Life was good to me until I hit 68. Then the past year I lost my wife, broke my hip, spent six weeks in the hospital with pneumonia, and was pensioned at the shoe factory where I worked half a century. Do you blame me for hating old age?"

A. — You've had some very hard knocks this year, but you're old enough to realize life parcels out the bitter with the sweet. Don't blame old age for your difficulties — many younger people have endured equal and even greater troubles. Indulge in self-pity and you're sure to be miserable. Sit down right now and chart a new life involving contacts with others and useful work. If you work it right, the years ahead may prove more rewarding than you dreamed.

Q. — "Since you're always nagging old folks to show more interest in politics, I decided to watch the full TV coverage of the Miami and Chicago conventions. I've never listened to so much hot air or saw more baboons attempting to act like civilized humans. I'm too old to fight the system so I'll not muddy my mind further with politics, thank you. I'll get my kicks henceforth from books, gardening, and my two dachshunds who look better to me than either of the candidates."

A. — I've got to admit the proceedings at political conventions won't captivate those trying to develop an interest in politics. We probably can't change the convention system, but we can find satisfaction in politics at the local level by getting to know candidates, campaigning for those we consider best qualified, keeping abreast of civic and legislative proposals, and working for causes we consider important.

Q. — "Our village church has a dwindling membership and can't afford a young preacher, so we took your advice and hired one retired from a city church. The reverend came well recommended, but he shocks everyone by playing baseball with teen-agers, wearing sport shirts, smoking a pipe, and in sermons quoting more from Time Magazine than the Bible."

A. — Many fading, small town churches have bloomed under the leadership of ministers retired from big city churches. It's too bad the parson you employed doesn't conform to the conservative attitudes of your community. Give him a few months and see if his new approach and liberal leanings may revive spiritual interests in your community. If not, your trustees can always send him packing.

High Court Rules Against Nurse In Damages Suit

By Associated Press

The State Supreme Court ruled against an Omaha registered nurse Friday in her suit to collect damages from the Sky Harbor Air Service.

Clara Siemsen, the nurse, sought damages for back injuries she claimed to have received while attending a cardiac patient being flown from New Orleans to Omaha by Sky Harbor in 1964. She said the layout in the converted passenger plane was such that she had to twist and turn to attend the heart patient and injured her back in the process.

The Douglas County District Court rejected the plaintiff's contention that Sky Harbor was negligent, and the Supreme Court concurred.

"There is no evidence that the plaintiff's seat or any other part of the airplane was defective, that it was customary to equip airplanes with seats which can be turned to the side, or that it was improper to use an airplane without such equipment for an ambulance purposes," the Supreme Court opinion said.

"The plaintiff's attempt to prove that the defendant had another airplane with such equipment would not establish that the airplane furnished was not properly equipped."

In other rulings Friday:

— Affirmed the Douglas County District Court in the guilty conviction of Mary Jane Randolph for second degree murder in the March 12, 1967, shooting death in Omaha of her husband, Joseph. She was sentenced to 10 years.

Miss Randolph unsuccessfully argued that the court should have given the jury an instruction covering the possibility of accidental death.

Siemsen also she should have been placed on probation. The Supreme Court, however, noted that Nebraska law makes persons convicted of murder, treason or forcible rape ineligible for probation.

Meet Star Carrier Steven Shaw

If the weather cooperates, Steven Shaw plans to get away from his varied activities and go camping in the woods with his grandfather this weekend.

This type of relaxation, however, is rare for a young man who besides going to school, is also a very efficient businessman.

Steven has increased an already sizable route for The Lincoln Star by 10 customers during his nine-month career and has gained a reputation for accurate and prompt service.

A student at Millard Lefler Junior High School, the young Lincolnite plays on his school's intramural team. As to the future, Steven

We Need GREATER CHURCHES and a GREATER FAITH

THE FIG TREE

We have all been impressed with the pathetic story of the barren fig tree. It was destined to perennial barrenness. The owner found this wilted tree and ordered it cut down but his vine-keeper pled for it to have another chance. This is a good parable of the Grace of God. Our religion is essentially a religion of redemption. God gives everyone of us another chance. We have failed more than once but the Almighty has been patient, kind and forgiving. Perhaps Luke 15 is our truest picture of God. He is like a woman who seeks until she finds her lost coin; like the shepherd who left the ninety and nine to find the lost one; like the father who received his prodigal son. The lesson is plain. God gives another chance and He will gather all the ripe figs.

Dr. Monk Honored At Wesleyan

Dr. Cecil R. Monk, Salem, Ore., Friday received the Alumni Medal of Honor at Nebraska Wesleyan University's thirteenth annual Alumni Awards Convocation.

Seven other alumni were also honored at the convocation, first event in a two-day alumni-parents Homecoming Weekend. Awards were presented by NWU Pres. Vance D. Rogers and Alumni President William Bowmaster.

Recipients of Alumni Loyalty awards were Mabel Dilley Friesen, Lakewood, Colo., housewife and Harold G. Smith Sr., Auburn farmer and hybrid seed producer.

Alumni Achievement awards went to James G. Miles, Wayzata, Minn., vice president for marketing at development with Control Data Corp.; and Garnett Lunsford Radin, administrator of the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children at St. Louis.

Young Alumni Service awards went to Dr. Robert and Janet Miller Jewett, faculty members at Morningside College, Sioux City, Iowa, and to M. W. Hunt, research group leader with Continental Oil Company, Ponca City, Okla.

Dr. Monk was cited for his long and successful career marked by unusual service and devotion to mankind.

Dr. Monk, a 1926 NWU graduate, has taught biology for 42 years, all but one of those years at Willamette University where he retired this spring as professor and chairman of the department of biology.

Dr. Monk was recognized for his efforts at upgrading scientific professionalism and education in his area. His work with Central University in Caracas, Venezuela, where he helped to develop a biology department also was hailed.

Mrs. Friesen was cited for her loyalty to Nebraska Wesleyan through her work with admissions personnel in recruiting students. Mrs. Friesen attended Nebraska Wesleyan from 1931 to 1933.

Smith was cited as one of a long-line of family members who have been loyal to Nebraska Wesleyan. Dr. Rogers noted that he sent a daughter and three sons to Nebraska Wesleyan and never misses a chance to help promote the college in Southeast Nebraska.

Miles was cited for his technical knowledge and personal dedication that has lead to managerial and organizational achievements. Miles, who attended Nebraska Wesleyan from 1937-39, was praised for his achievements which reflect his personal integrity and bring credit to Nebraska Wesleyan.

Mrs. Radin was cited for her 42 years in the field of nursing and health care. She attended Nebraska Wesleyan from 1932-37 and at the same time studied during the summer at Northwestern, earning a bachelor's and master's degree within two weeks of each other.

Dr. and Mrs. Jewett were cited for their service to Christian Education. He earned his doctorate from the University of Tuebingen, Germany and has been at Morningside for two years, currently serving as chairman of the department of religion.

Mrs. Jewett earned a masters of music at Roosevelt University and has been active in community choral and concert groups while teaching voice at Morningside.

M. W. Hunt was recognized for outstanding service and accomplishments in business, community and church activities. He has 14 U.S. patents and many foreign patents that cover rocket fuel, detergents, motor oil and gas additives and fertilizers.

Dr. Whitmore: Generation May Have To Play God

Industrial, scientific and business developments will place the current student generation in the position of playing God, according to the director of Kellogg Community College, Battle Creek, Mich.

Dr. Richard F. Whitmore told Nebraska Wesleyan students that "your generation must make the important decisions and find ways to implement them." He spoke

Lincoln Is Now Home

"Nebraska is so beautiful — there are so many trees, it's like a forest — and the weather, so warm, like summer."

These are the first impressions of their new home state for Mr. and Mrs. Leif Steindal, who are among Lincoln's newest residents and who arrived from Keflavik, Iceland, on Sept. 6.

Mr. and Mrs. Steindal and their small son, Helge, have been the houseguests of Mrs. Steindal's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Webb, since their arrival but now are becoming settled in their own home and becoming better acquainted with their new "hometown".

Lincoln, however, is far different from Iceland's capital city of Keflavik where, Mrs. Steindal says, "summer sometimes never comes, at all."

The former Louise Webb, Mrs. Steindal was born in Iceland, where her father, the late Arnold Webb of Charleston, W.Va., settled following World War II. A registered nurse, she met her Norwegian husband when he was visiting relatives in Iceland.

Incidentally, this is not the first time that Mr. and Mrs. Webb have played substitute parents for a niece. Their "daughters", Mrs. Leon Booze of Sandusky, Ohio, and Mrs. Harry Vernon Peterson (Carol Patricia Webb before her marriage last Friday, Oct. 18) have made their home with their uncle and aunt since the death of their parents in West Virginia.

Mr. and Mrs. Webb, who have no children of their own, are overjoyed with the newest additions to their ready-made family and, like most grandparents, are eagerly helping two-year-old Helge struggle with words since his English vocabulary is practically non-existent.

Wedding Plans Are Revealed

Choosing the holiday season for her wedding is Miss Constance Beall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh F. Beall, whose betrothal to Jeffrey Kushner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne L. Kushner, was announced last August.

The former University of Nebraska coed has set Thursday, Dec. 19, as the date for the ceremony, which will be solemnized at a morning service at Tifereth Israel Synagogue.

Opening the series of courtesies for Miss Beall will be the bridal tea for which Mr. Kushner's mother, Mrs. Dwayne L. Kushner, and his grandmother, Mrs. Max Kushner, will be hostesses Sunday afternoon, Nov. 3. The guests have been invited to the Hotel Lincoln, between the hours of 2:30 o'clock and 5 o'clock.

Revealing plans this morning for her approaching wedding is Miss Kay Lynn Johnson, who will become the bride of James L. Werner of Indianapolis, Ind., on Saturday, Nov. 30.

Miss Eloyce Johnson will attend her sister as maid of honor for the 6 o'clock ceremony, to be solemnized at Sacred Heart Church, and the matron of honor will be Mrs. Richard Schott, Cleveland, Ohio.

The bridesmaids will be Miss Linda Frech, Highland Park, Ill., Miss Dory Kozak, Miss Diane Getscher, Miss Lynn Zimmerman and Miss Marianne Vlock. Miss Loretta Johnson will be her sister's flower girl.

Serving Mr. Werner as best man will be James J. Kiefer, Indianapolis, and the groomsmen will be Richard Schott, Cleveland; Mr. Werner's brother, Michael Werner, and Stephen Bornhorst, Indianapolis; and Lyle Johnson, brother of the bride-elect, John Werner and Joseph Werner of Indianapolis, both brothers of Mr. Werner, will seat the guests, and Miss Johnson's brother, Todd Johnson, will be ringbearer.

Opening lead — jack of hearts.

This hand occurred in a pair tournament. Six clubs would have been a more normal contract, but South was shooting for a top score by playing the hand in notrump.

The contract was sound enough; in fact, seven clubs would also have been quite reasonable, though it would have gone down in this case, because of the 4-1 trump division.

West led a heart against six notrump and South decided to take every possible precaution to make the hand. Accordingly, he won with the ace, cashed the ace of diamonds, and led a low club towards dummy.

When West followed with the nine, declarer permitted it to win the trick. This proved to be a very wise move, as later events proved. West returned a heart and South easily took the rest of the tricks. He won the heart, led a club to the queen, discarded a spade on the king of diamonds, and thus made the slam.

But suppose South had played the hand without making due allowance for a 4-1 club break. Let's say he won the heart lead, cashed the ace of diamonds, and then led a club to the queen as many players probably would.

He would then have gone down after cashing the king of diamonds and discarding a spade on it. He would be unable to run the clubs without first conceding a trick in that suit, and as soon as he did this, East would cash his queen of diamonds for the setting trick.

The safety play of conceding a club trick before cashing the king of diamonds has much to recommend it. The danger of a 4-1 club break is more than imaginary — it occurs in 28 deals out of 100 — and declarer should protect against the possibility whenever the circumstances demand it.

October's bright blue weather is especially blue and bright this morning, newswise, that is — The talk around town is interesting to say the least — and some of it stretches into November.

But let's begin with some homecomers — Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schorr, III, who returned from far-away places on Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Schorr have been spending the past two weeks in Japan and we're sure that although it really was a business trip there must have been just a little pleasure during their stay.

Then we heard that 'Gold Cup Team' — a golf group from the Lincoln Country Club is home again after basking in the delights of the Desert Inn in Las Vegas. The men, of course, participated in the Gold Cup golf tournament, but the distaff side was far from bored — It found many interesting things to do during the stay in Las Vegas. Thursday was homecoming day.

Speaking of one place and

Eastridge Meadow Lane Skyline Terrace Wedgewood Manor

While all of us have been busy — with day-to-day routine, with watching the leaves turn, with sighing over the rain or laughing in the sun — October has been slipping by. We hadn't noticed its going, until looking up and realizing that this is our last October weekend, and after Monday-through-Thursday have hurried by, it will be . . . yes, already November.

If November is as busy as October has been, we predict that it, too, will pass into history leaving us wondering where it has gone. We do have a clue as to October's fate, however. It has left tracks in the vicinity of the home of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Hall were host and hostess recently to Dr. McVickers Hunt,

Evening Wedding

For the wedding of Miss Hollace Gene Holloway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman G. Holloway of Gypsum, Kan., and Keith W. Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dwane Mitchell, which took place Saturday, Oct. 19, bouquets of chrysanthemums in gold and bronze tones appointed the chancel of the United Presbyterian Church at Roxbury, Kan. The service was solemnized at 7 o'clock by the Rev. Vernon Snider of Canton, Kan.

Miss Sue Holloway, who attended her sister as maid of honor, and the bridesmatron, Mrs. Ron Campbell of Hays, Kan., wore Empire frocks of olive green satin and carried nosegays of autumn-toned chrysanthemums.

Serving as best man was Frank Mitchell of Lincoln, and seating the guests were Jim Melroy, McPherson, Kan.; Richard Buller, Newton, Kan.; Tom Green and Neil Kolder, Lincoln.

Floral appliques of Chantilly lace, embroidered with pearls, patterned the bride's gown of white silk taffeta. The lace framed the crescent neckline of the long-sleeved basque, and continued in a front panel to the hem of the slender skirt. Her train-length veil of silk illusion was held by a pillbox cap of lace and taffeta, and she carried a white Bible ornamented with white chrysanthemums and stephanotis, and centered with a bronze orchid.

Mr. Mitchell, a graduate of Nebraska Technical School at Milford, and his bride will live in Lincoln, at 4840 So. 47th.

The News Around Town

another beyond the boundaries of the state — let's spend a moment or two in Kansas City, Mo., and in San Francisco — at least long enough to tell you about some former Lincoln residents.

Just the other day the postman dropped two letters in the mailbox at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray C. Johnson. The letters were from their sons — William Johnson of Kansas City, and Jim Johnson of San Jose, Calif.

By strange coincidence each letter told of an honor that had been received because of involvement in youth work.

William Johnson, who is with an investment firm in Kansas City, was appointed to a three-year term on the Optimist Club Youth board.

In San Jose Jim Johnson has served as president of the Joe DiMaggio League (youths 16, 17 and 18 years of age) — baseball, of course. During the Joe DiMaggio 'World Series' held at the Municipal Stadium in San Jose, Mr. Johnson and Mr.

a former Nebraskan and graduate of the University of Nebraska, who is now associated with the University of Illinois in Urbana, Ill.

Dr. Hunt arrived in Lincoln on Wednesday evening, and spent Thursday and Friday visiting the Human Resource Research Foundation, of which Mr. Hall is in charge.

In Skyline Terrace we find our youngest suburban news tracks of the day — left by Miss Krisha Lyn Dudley, who is 20 days old.

An Oct. 6 arrival at Lincoln General Hospital, Krisha, has joined a two-year-old sister, Kamron, at home . . . and home also includes parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Dudley.

All four of Krisha's grandparents have been here to greet the young miss. They are Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Koehler and Mr. and Mrs. Chet Dudley, all Geneva residents.

Krisha Dudley didn't receive the "youngest of the morning" title by much of a margin. She was hard pressed by Meadow Lane resident, Master John Edward Ford, who put in an appearance at Bryan Memorial Hospital on Oct. 5.

John is the second son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Ford. His brother is Don Andrew, who will be 3 in December.

Mrs. Martha Ford of Omaha, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Hendrix of Valley have already been here to see their new grandson.

There were tracks all over suburbia for last weekend's Nebraska-Missouri football game, and Wedgewood Manor was no exception.

The particular tracks we are thinking of belong to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Batliner, who left a trail from Kansas City, Mo., all the way to Lakewood Drive and the home of Mr. Batliner's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Martin F. Batliner.

The foursome attended the game, and had a nice weekend-visit, before the Missourians had to "make tracks" for home.

For at least four suburban residents we know, one October afternoon made tracks in circles — prowling around a bridge table.

The particular afternoon was Wednesday, Oct. 23, and the particular suburbanites were Mrs. Dean Tebo, Mrs. Deo Wolff, Mrs. Ed Maser, and Mrs. William Zimmerman. The players gathered at the home of Mrs. Tebo.

flower girls will be Miss Shawn Tracy and Miss Kathleen Tracy.

Juan Baenz will serve Mr. Carranza as best man, and seating the guests will be Fred Way of Trumbull, and William Fulmer. Edward Gorynski and William Tracy, uncle of Miss Culver, will be the groomsmen, and the ringbearer will be Mark Way of Trumbull.

Miss Culver's fiance is a former student at Peru State College.

Abby

no day off in marriage

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Al and I have been married for 16 years, if you can call this a marriage. Al says that marriage is a job, like any other job, and since everybody gets at least one day a week off from his job, a man should get a day off from his marriage, so Al works at our marriage 6 days a week, but he takes Sundays off.

He leaves the house late

Saturday night, and I don't see him again until early Monday morning. He puts about 200 miles on his car and I don't have the slightest idea where he's been. This doesn't make much sense to me, but I can't talk him out of it. Is he crazy, or am I!

AL'S BETTY

DEAR BETTY: Marriage is a 7-day-a-week job, and there's no time off for good (or "bad") behavior. Al is far from "crazy," if he's able to sell this deal, but I'm not so sure about you, if you're buying it.

Brenda came home at 11:30 last night after a movie date and she found me in the kitchen baking cookies for a church bake sale which was to take place the next day. She looked at me like I had no business being there and shouted, "Mother, what are you doing up! Go to bed!" I was very hurt and upset over this.

HURT MOM

DEAR HURT: Our daughter who is 16 says that when a girl brings her boyfriend in after a date, the parents should be in bed.

On Thursday evening Mrs. Richard Miller and her daughter, Mrs. Tracy Donovan complimented Miss Sharrar when they entertained at the home of Mrs. Donovan. Twenty guests were invited and during the evening the honoree was presented with a bedroom and bathroom shower.

And now we'll take a look at early November activity — Nov. 9, in case anyone has forgotten, is not only a game weekend, but it also is "Homecoming." So — it goes without saying that there will be activity galore.

One of the pre-game parties will be the luncheon for which Mrs. William Harry Carson will be host and hostess when they entertain at the Lincoln Country Club.

DISGUSTED WITH

DEAR DISGUSTED: A man who is in the service could conceivably have many legitimate reasons for not writing. He could be on the move and unable to write. Also, mail is not always delivered without a hitch from the war zone. Some can't write for security reasons. But how about children who are just away from home and don't write either! Sharper than a serpent's tooth.

DEAR ABBY: Our

daughter who is 16 says that when a girl brings her boyfriend in after a date, the parents should be in bed.

DEAR HURT: If your

year-old daughter can tell you where you should be — and get away with it — you have my sympathy. Children do not become disrespectful and insolent over night. It's not possible for me to accomplish in one letter what you apparently have failed to do in 16 years. Sorry.

DEAR ABBY: So the "rich relatives" placed their name-address sticker over another signature and sent the Christmas card out again!

A card so beautiful as to merit double-duty deserves more. The folks who received the second-hand card should have covered the sticker with their own, and sent it back for triple duty.

UNCLE JOE

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90060 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Flying Becomes Joy To Future Missionary

By JIM STEVENSON
Star Staff Writer

With only eight months left before she goes to Mexico as a missionary, Gwen Smith, 23, of Lincoln wanted to be as ready as possible.

So, with an eye to the rugged central Mexico terrain where she and her husband-to-be will be assigned, she decided to take flying lessons. This week she soloed.

And when she came back to earth, she admitted that her feeling about flying wasn't limited to what it means in her mission work.

"I thoroughly enjoy it," she exclaimed.

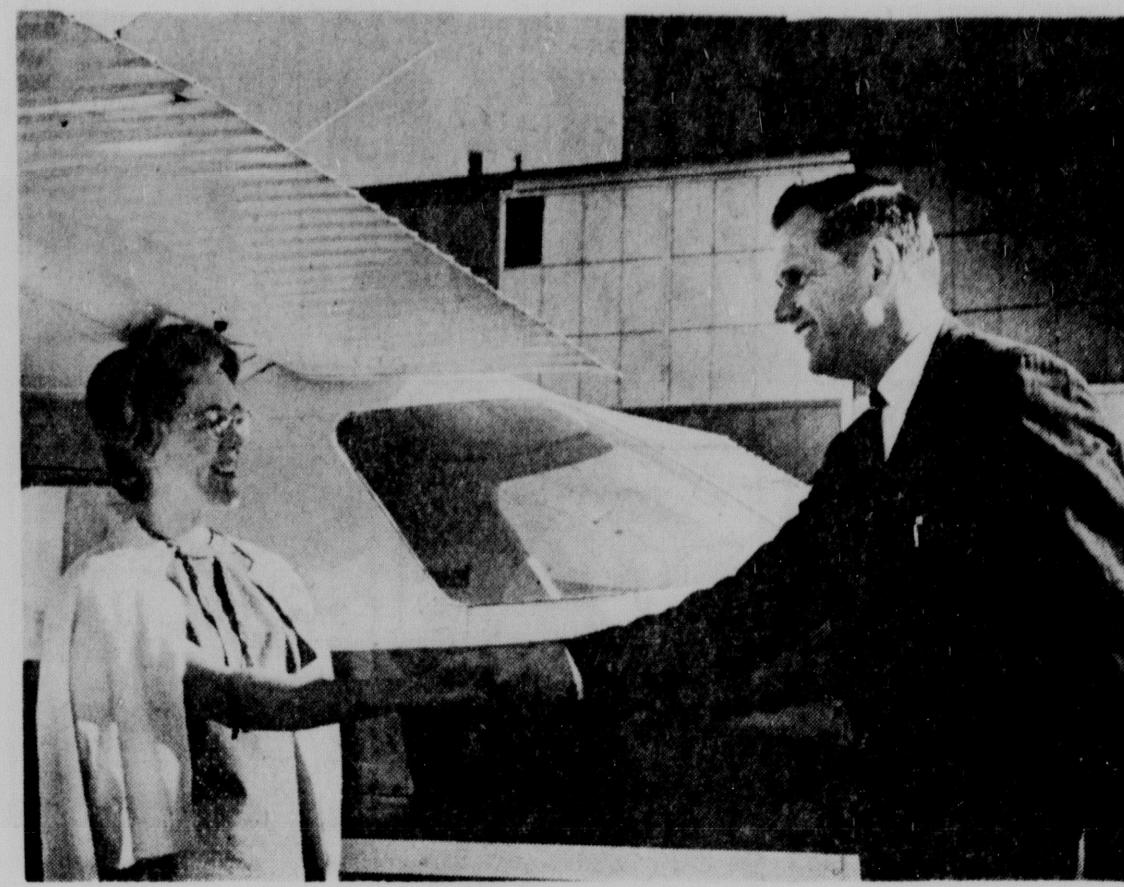

Not Surprised

Flight instructor Vernon Harms wasn't surprised.

After her fifth solo landing Friday morning, he grinned and waved her toward the hangar.

"She's disappointed," he said as the plane taxied off the runway. "I think she wanted to go up one more time."

Harms, who is a full-time minister and a part-time flying instructor, was as happy with his pupil's performance as she was.

MISS SMITH . . . congratulated by instructor.

"You always question whether or not a student is ready to solo," he said afterward between sips of coffee. "You never know for sure what their reaction is going to be."

Flies Itself

In fact, he said, the airplane "flies itself better than a student can." The student's biggest problem is learning not to overcontrol.

And the biggest problem for the instructor, he added, is getting the student's confidence — without becoming the student's source of confidence.

"A student with too much confidence in his instructor," he said, "is, well . . ." He shook his head.

Must Be Ready

"You have to be ready to take the plane over at just the last minute," he said. He described one student who approached the runway badly, bounced on the runway and almost crashed in a cornfield nearby.

"I took the plane," Harms said. "And when we got back up I told him, 'You just tried to kill me. If you want to kill yourself do it when I'm not along.'"

A bystander joked that after that incident, Harms decided to become a minister.

The flight instructor chuckled.

One Exception

But that was the exception, he added quickly. Most of his students are extremely careful, he said.

And, although some of his students have questioned whether they were ready to solo, Harms said all have gone through it and have performed well.

"The last thing I tell them," he said, "is that the airplane will be a little lighter without me in it."

"That's not what you told me," Miss Smith responded. "Just before I took off, you told me that you wouldn't be with me but that God would."

Suit Of $74,000 Names Driver, City Bus Lines

A $74,000 damage suit has been filed in Lancaster District Court against the Lincoln City Lines and a bus driver, David Wells Sr., in connection with a car-bus accident July 24, 1968.

The plaintiff, Roxanne Brown, through her father, Richard Brown, alleges that she was a passenger in a car driven by Kent D. Brobst, when the bus turned into the path of the automobile at 13th and South.

She alleges she received a hand fracture, multiple lacerations to the face and hand and a puncture wound to the lip as well as severance of a tendon in the ring finger.

Temporary Injunction Halted Enforcement Of Liquor Rule

Lancaster District Judge Bartlett Boyles Friday issued a temporary injunction against the Nebraska Liquor Control Commission enjoining it from enforcing its "no discount" rule.

The suit, which still must be tried on its merits, attacks the commission ruling that a discount is a gift of something of value. It contends that quantity prices are an earned price reduction and not a gift.

The commission contends that barring of discounts "has been a stabilizing influence on the marketing of alcoholic liquor within the State of Nebraska and warrants continuation."

The commission had contended its order was enforcing the intent of state law which says wholesalers cannot give "anything of value" to their customers.

Stillwater Not Cornhuskers' Favorite Place To Play

Stillwater, Okla. — Just so it's not like the last time. Nebraska hasn't played since three years ago here at Lewis Field, where 40,000 homecoming fans are expected to swell the stadium to capacity for Oklahoma State's first home game of the season today. Kickoff is set for 1:30 p.m.

That 1965 Husker team was the third of coach Bob Devaney's four straight Big Eight championship teams, but it wasn't until Pete Tatman scored with 38 seconds left that the Huskers went ahead, 21-17. That was the way it ended, thanks to the clock running out with the Cowboys on the Husker Five.

Two years before that, Nebraska won a 20-16 game here. Two years before that, though, in 1961, the Cowboys won, 14-6. Their 1960-61 wins have been their only victories in this eight-year series that began with O-State's entry into the conference.

So this territory is definitely not friendly for Nebraska and added to the fact that the Huskers are still trying for their first conference win is that O-State will be home for the first time after four road contests. The Cowboys and

RONNIE JOHNSON

Baylor, which hosts Texas A&M tonight, are the last two major college teams in the nation to make their home debuts.

Nebraska is definitely at the crossroads of its season with an 0-2 Big Eight slate. Oklahoma State is 0-1 in the conference, losing 49-14 to Kansas, which had pinned a 23-13 setback on the Huskers the week previously.

It will be only the first jaunt of a long road caravan that makes up the last half of the Husker schedule. Nebraska is away from home in four of its last five contests, all in the conference, returning to Lincoln only on November 9 for homecoming against Kansas State.

Working against the Huskers will be the fact that no team in conference history has ever won or shared the championship with two losses. Missouri dropped the Huskers to 0-2 in the loop with the 16-14 win in Lincoln last Saturday.

Oklahoma State is always potentially dangerous, as witness its 21-17 victory over previously undefeated Houston and in the brief but fierce rivalry with Nebraska has usually given the Huskers fits and is one of the hardest-hitting teams they will play.

O-State quarterback Ronnie Johnson is leading all Big Eight passers in per-game yards and three TDs. Nebraska signal-caller Ernie Sigler has the best completion percentage in the circuit, 59.6, on 34 of 57 for 498 yards and three tallies, also.

Wingback-right half Terry Brown is another offensive threat for the 'Pokes, as he stands second in the league in receiving with 21 grabs for 278 yards and a touchdown.

In fact, Oklahoma State's 193.5 yards a game in the air is the best of all Big Eight outfits and that aerial game will run head-on into the best pass defense in the league, for the Huskers have allowed 94.4 yards a game overland.

Nebraska's 210.8 total defensive average is also tops, too.

So chances look good for a low scoring, hard-hitting struggle. O-State's defense is led by middle guard John Little, linebacker Larry Gosney and halfback Charley Trimble.

The Cowboys will have eight sophomores in their starting lineups, six on offense, five of them in the line.

Their schedule is one of the nation's toughest, too, as they started out with losses to Arkansas, 32-15, and Texas, 31-3.

YANK CAGERS PREVAIL

... Yugoslavia Toppled, 65-50, In Finals

Mexico City (P) — The much-maligned U.S. basketball team ripped through giant-killer Yugoslavia 65-50 to capture the Olympic gold medal Friday night after versatile Vera Caslavská, the brilliant Czech gymnast, became the first athlete to claim four gold medals in the Games.

Earlier, Pockey Watson and Claudia Kolb added two more swimming golds to the already bulging U.S. collection. At the end of the day, the United States had 40 golds and 95 total medals to lead all nations.

The American basketball team, which came into the games as an underdog with many collegiate stars choosing not to compete, raced to its 75th Olympic victory without a loss, wrapping up the title with 16 straight points at the start of the second half.

The U.S. led by three points, 32-29, after the tightly-played first half against the Yugoslavs, who had gained the final by upsetting the favored Russian team.

Russia finished with the bronze medal, beating Brazil 70-53 in Friday night's consolation game.

Spencer Haywood, who developed into the star of the team after All-American Lew Alcindor chose not to try out, sparked the victory.

Recovering quickly from an attack of diarrhea the night before, the 6-foot-8 ace from Detroit scored 23 points, including 18 of the team's first 26 points in the second half.

Miss Caslavská, who planned to be married Saturday, won the women's all-around title Wednesday night and then won three of the other four individual titles Friday night. She captured the vault horse and the uneven parallel bars, finished second in the balanced beam and then came back with a first-place tie in the floor exercises.

Miss Watson, who had been kept out of swimming competition for six months by mononucleosis earlier this year, won the women's 200-meter backstroke in Olympic record time of 2:24.8.

Then, after Roland Matthes of East Germany edged Americans Mitchell Ivey of Santa Clara, Calif., and Jack Horsley of Seattle, Wash., in the men's 200-meter backstroke, Miss Kolb grabbed the women's 400-meter medley.

That gave U.S. swimmers and divers 20 gold medals in 29 events, four more than they won in the 1964 Games. There are, however, 10 swimming events this year that weren't on the Tokyo program.

Over-all, the U.S. gold total went to 39 with the grand medal total shooting to 94.

The three gold medals for Miss Caslavská Friday night enabled her to surpass her 1964 output of three gold medals when she won the all-around, the vault horse and the balanced beam.

This time the only event she didn't win was the beam, finishing second to Natalia Kuchinskaya of Russia.

When Miss Caslavská received a 9.85 score for her balanced beam performance, it appeared she could not be overtaken. But the Russian girl also came up with a 9.85, which gave her a composite score of 19.650 to 19.575 for Vera.

However, the Czech bounced back in the final event, the floor exercise, and won her fourth gold after tying with Larissa Petrik of Russia. Each went into the final day with an average score of 9.77 and each posted a 9.90 for her final performance.

The 26-year-old blonde started her golden evening by successfully defending one of her Tokyo titles.

On the vault horse this time, she was the last of six finalists to perform and she needed a 9.8 score to win. She did even better. Her perfect hand spring over the horse brought her a 9.90, and the capacity crowd at the National Auditorium roared.

Just about half an hour later, the Czechoslovak beauty, who earlier had announced her post-Olympic wedding plans, posted another 9.90 score and took the uneven parallel bars title.

A 20-yard Southeast punt gave the Spartans the ball at the Knights' 40 in the second stanza and it took nine plays to get it across. Blue sneaked over from the six-inch line on fourth down 5:03 before halftime.

Just before intermission, East tackled Stan Heger recovered a fumble at the Southeast 14. However, the Knights pushed the Spartans back to the 24 in three plays and Doug Campbell batted down a fourth-down pass off a fake field goal play to spike the threat.

"We sat on our lead and kept it on the ground, which was probably a mistake," said East coach Lee Zentie in the happy Spartan dressing room. "We should have thrown more to our short side. We really wanted that first intracity game. We just didn't get a good enough rush on their passes."

Southeast coach Frank Solich explained, "We threw more tonight on first and second-down plays than we ever have before, which I think helped us. Adams called all the plays on the touchdown drive and did a real fine job and Poole did a great job of receiving (six grabs for 40 yards) after an elbow injury kept him from practicing until Thursday."

... TAKE ON NOTRE DAME

By Associated Press

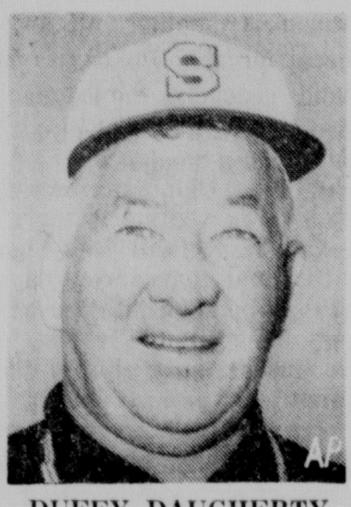

Michigan State Coach Duffy Daugherty, who rarely misses a trick, will employ a sophomore quarterback and a little psychology when his Spartans tackle fifth-ranked Notre Dame in one of the key games on Saturday's major college football program.

Daugherty has tapped Bill Triplett to start against the Irish — and at halftime the Spartans' music director will tap his baton and the band will play "I'm Possible Dream" at halftime of the nationally televised game. It will be telecast by ABC starting at 1:30 p.m. EDT.

That popular tune might be even more fitting at Champaign, Ill., and Ames, Iowa, where Illinois and Iowa State face even more impossible tasks than Michigan State.

Illinois, winless and a 58-8 loser to Notre Dame last week, takes on unbeaten, second-ranked Ohio State. In losing all five games so far, the Illini have allowed 194 points while scoring just 39.

Iowa State, 3-3 and coming off a 42-7 loss to Oklahoma, meets unbeaten third-ranked Kansas, winner of five and averaging 300 yards rushing,

DUFFY DAUGHERTY

130.6 passing and 45 points a game. The Jaya Hawks, meanwhile, have allowed only 61 points.

In addition, both Ohio State and Kansas will be trying to make the most of an opportunity to close the gap on Southern California in The Associated Press' major college poll. The Trojans are not scheduled this week.

Ohio State, which figures to give Illinois' defensive secondary a stiff test with Rex Kern's passes to fleet Jan White and Bruce Jankowski, also will be looking for revenge. Illinois defeated Ohio State 17-13 last year and cost the Buckeyes a chance for the Big Ten title.

The explosive Kansas offense will be led by quarterback Bobby Douglass, who has completed passes for 548 yards and gained 219 rushing. Douglass has passed for six touchdowns and scored seven rushing.

While Ohio State and Kansas face what appear to be easy tests, fourth-ranked Penn State, 4-0, takes on Boston College in what could turn out to be a stiff battle.

Sixth-ranked Tennessee is idle, but the remainder of the Top Ten is in action. No. 7 Purdue meets Iowa, No. 8 Georgia takes on Kentucky, No. 9 Miami of Florida faces Auburn and No. 10 Syracuse tackles No. 11 California.

In other top 20 games, it's No. 12 Michigan vs. Minnesota, No. 13 Texas vs. Rice, No. 14 Missouri vs. Kansas State, No. 15 Florida vs. Vanderbilt, No. 16 Arkansas vs. North Texas State, No. 17 Mississippi vs. Houston, No. 18 LSU vs. TCU, No. 19 Texas Tech vs. SMU and No. 20 Florida State vs. South Carolina.

The Texas, Arkansas, LSU and Florida State games will be played at night.

Bankers Can't Ignore Politics, Says Tiemann

Phoenix, Ariz. — Nebraska Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann, a banker turned politician, said Friday bankers cannot afford to ignore politics, and scored the aloof stance which some bankers have taken in the past.

"The attitude of bankers has been one of defending the status quo, staying out of controversial public matters, and hoping that politicians and the public would leave them pretty much alone," he said.

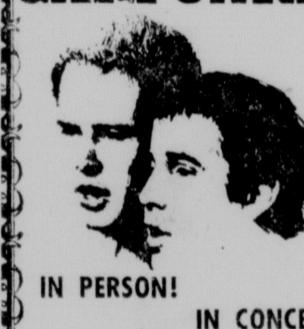

"I submit to you that as a general view, this attitude is wholly indefensible."

The observations were contained in a speech prepared for delivery to the Arizona Bankers Association in Phoenix.

Gov. Tiemann said each individual banker must decide the kind and degree of his political activity, but suggested that running for elective office is not too extreme for consideration.

"Public service is demanding, costs money and takes time from your family, but what worthwhile pursuits don't?" he asked. "There is no rule in our system that a man or woman must always have been a politician in order to hold office, nor one which requires an office holder to remain forever in public office."

Otto Liebers Dies At Age 81; Funeral Monday

Otto H. Liebers of rural Lincoln, dairyman, ex-legislator and veteran conservationist, died Friday at the age of 81. Services will be held at 2 p.m. Monday at Roper and Sons' Mortuary, 4300 O.

Mr. Liebers was one of the driving forces in setting up the Salt Valley Watershed District. He served as its first president in 1960 and in September was named president emeritus when ill health forced him to retire from the position.

Up until 1967, Mr. Liebers was president of Skyline Farms, the dairy which he founded in 1924. In 1967 Skyline merged with Roberts Dairy.

Born In Minden

He was born near Minden and attended the Baptist College in Grand Island, the School of Agriculture and the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture. He graduated at the top of his class in 1913.

That year he became Nebraska's first county agricultural agent, serving Gage County. From 1916 until 1919, Mr. Liebers was agricultural and immigration agent for the Burlington Railroad in Denver.

He returned to Lincoln then to organize and become president of the Liebers Equipment Co. for a few years. In 1924 he became manager of the Nebraska Dairy Development Society.

High Court Won't Rush School Issue

The State Supreme Court has refused to hear before the Nov. 5 election a motion by Dr. Melville Chaloupka to take action reinstating an injunction against the 10-county vote on withdrawal from the Mid-Plains Area Vocational-Technical School in North Platte.

The Callaway physician is protesting Lincoln County District Court Judge Norris Chadderton's granting of a supersedeas bond to two intervenors.

The judge earlier had granted an injunction on the vote but later granted the supersedeas bond which had the effect of moving the issue back onto the ballot.

The high court's action means that the appeal will travel through the normal judicial channels and will not be decided until long after the election.

Candlelight Vigil Staged For Children Of Biafra

Just in case you're wondering, the youths carrying candles at the corner of 33rd and O Friday night were not participating in some new student kick, but holding a candlelight vigil for the children of Biafra.

Approximately 100 college and high school students took part in the vigil in Lincoln that was actually a part of a series of vigils held simultaneously by concerned parties in numerous cities across the United States.

Dale Mesner, an instructor in mathematics at the University of Nebraska, said motorists were showing interest in the vigil.

"We have received numerous toots on the horn from passing motorists," he

NU Student, 19, Charged With Homicide

A 19-year-old University of Nebraska student from Omaha was charged Friday with motor vehicle homicide in connection with the Oct. 19 car-train collision which claimed the life of Laura Hamilton.

Doyle Hanson, accompanied by his attorney, Dale Fahrnbach, requested a preliminary hearing which was set for Dec. 2. Judge Ralph Sloane set bond at $1,000.

Miss Hamilton, a University of Nebraska coed from Smith Center, Kan., died of injuries received when a car driven by Hanson collided with a Burlington Railroad passenger train on West O between Sunvalley Blvd. and Bell Street.

According to police, the flashing red lights and automatic bell at the crossing were in operation at the time of the accident.

HOFFER IN SHOUTING MATCH

Longshoreman-philosopher Eric Hoffer, a member of the President's violence commission, engaged in a shouting match Friday at the commission hearing with Herman Blake, a Negro sociologist at the University of California at Santa Cruz. The shouting match came after Blake played a tape recording of an interview he conducted in an Oakland jail cell last summer with Black Panther organizer Huey P. Newton.

'Winning Secretary Expects Her Boss To Be Successful'

An educational secretary at their annual conference, Mrs. Gold, editor of "Today's Secretary," declared that success for women in the 1970s

Stock Mart Posts Pretty Fair Gain

New York (UPI) — The stock market once more showed its sensitivity to the idea of peace in Vietnam and sputtered late Friday to come out with a pretty fair gain. Trading was active.

Volume was 14.15 million shares, compared with 18.3 million Thursday.

The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 4.60 to 961.28.

The list was irregular in early trading but moved gradually into plus territory as selling pressure relented. By noon there was a very thin gain, however. In the afternoon trading picked up and more insistent buying pushed stocks well into plus territory.

Analysts credited rumors of a possible move toward peace in Vietnam over the weekend for the increased strength. Neubulous as the rumors were — and Wall Street has heard plenty of them over the past several days — investors thought it safer to be "long" rather than "short" in the market during the weekend. They figured that if lightning struck and there was a big, factual peace development over the weekend, they would be caught short in a rampaging bull market, analysts said.

The rumors were given more support by a statement from Republican presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon who said he had learned President Johnson was "driving very hard" for an agreement on a Vietnam bombing halt.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 7 to 355, with 46 stocks up 1.9, rails off 4, and utilities up 7.

1,586 stocks traded on the New York Exchange, 741 rose, 850 fell, 10 highs for the year totaled 88 and new lows 13. Despite a higher market, nine of the 15 most active stocks were losers, 5 were winners, and Texas Utilities closed unchanged at $44.

The house of being most active stock was C. I. C. Corp., a holding company of the C. I. C. Corp. of America, a savings and holding company, which traded on successively high levels of 374,000 and 20,000 shares at 15 1/2.

Reports that many corporate earnings reports were being held up, 16 up, 8 down, on total volume of 425,700 shares.

Rich-McCormick, which has had a "down-most-active" week, was second most-active, as it sank 10 to 47 1/2.

Reports that many corporate earnings reports were being held up, 16 up, 8 down, on total volume of 425,700 shares.

Prices advanced on the American Stock Exchange. Volume was 3.84 million shares compared with 6.31 million Thursday.
